

COL. RANDLE SCORES ON LIGHT ENGINEERS

Favoritism Charge on Light- ing Question Creates Sen- sation At Hearing.

extensive lights on Sixteenth street and in other northwest sections, at the expense of the suburban residents.

Lighted Streets Deserted.

"In that portion of the northwest section which is lighted bright as day during the entire night," said Colonel Randle, "there is not a single individual to be seen. In the suburbs, however, the farmers come grinning through the darkness with their products, along steep and dangerous roads where they cannot see their hands before their faces."

There are many others who have to reach the city early in the morning before the residents of Sixteenth street turn over in their downy beds for a second nap. From 2 o'clock in the morning, when lights are needed in the suburbs, not an individual can be seen on Sixteenth street, where the lights are kept going all night.

The discrimination against the suburbs of the District of Columbia is sending millions of dollars to Maryland and Virginia for investment in homes by business employed in Washington, because to live in the suburbs of the District of Columbia they must change cars to reach the heart of the city, while they can come from Maryland and Virginia and reach the center of the city without changing cars.

Now the Commissioners propose to discriminate against the suburbs in the District of Columbia by turning out the lights. This is a hardship when they tell us this is the Nation's Capital where 300,000 people are yoked up with 30,000 people, and forced to pay one-half of the expenses without any voice in expending their own money for public improvements of the National Capital.

"The eastern part of the District of Columbia has been especially discriminated against and some seem to think that if the land west of the Potomac is ceded back by Virginia, the eastern part of the Eastern Branch will be ceded back to Maryland."

Accidents Increase.

Several of those who appeared before the board declared that since the lights have been extinguished accidents have occurred which could easily have been prevented had the highways been lighted.

"You have put us into limbo," was the cry of Col. Lancaster, representing the Citizens' National Suburban Association, expressed himself.

Mr. Lancaster read resolutions from his association protesting against the order and demanding that the lights be restored. He declared that Congress appropriated money for the maintenance of lights in the suburbs and that the Commissioners could not take these lights away without specific authorization from Congress. "We don't propose to pay taxes," declared Mr. Lancaster, "and have our money frittered away on other things. We are not asking for anything unreasonable. When Congress meets we will get the money for these lights if you can't."

"If you must save money turn out the lights at midnight, but don't deprive us of them all night long. We ought to be lighted all night, because of the heavy traffic there; Georgia avenue also ought to have all-night lights, but if you are bent on economy cut off the lights on the other streets at midnight."

Suburb's Rights Asserted.

Dr. R. W. Frisbie, representing the Brookland Citizens' Association, University Heights, and vicinity, told the Commissioners that they must realize that the suburbanites were not a "bunch of kickers," but that they had been previously wronged, and they wanted their rights.

He declared that lights were an absolute necessity for the safety of life and limb, and to prove his assertion said that a friend recently drove off the side of the road and narrowly escaped serious injury in a spot which was so dark he could not see where he was going.

Dr. Frisbie told the Commissioners that the residents in his section of the city will have little chance to save their homes from fire unless the lights are restored. He said that Captain Graham in charge of the engine company in Brookland told him that it would take him so long to reach a fire that great damage might result before the company could get into action.

Hardship To People.

W. W. Richardson, of Benning, said that the lights on the main highway, central avenue and Ridge road was a real hardship to the people in that vicinity.

Major Judson interrupted him to say that there were only nine families, or sixty persons, in that vicinity, and that the lights were not needed there. He would take all the tax money collected in the vicinity. Mr. Richardson admitted that this might be so, but declared that in his opinion the lights on the main highway were needed for the safety of the people, and that the Commissioners should not take these the District government as a result of arguments that the money was necessary for the installation of lights in the suburban districts.

"What right, therefore, has this board to take away the lights for which money was specifically appropriated by Congress?" asked Mr. Richardson.

Practically every citizen's association in Washington was represented at the hearing today. At the conclusion of the arguments, shortly after noon, Commissioner Rudolph announced that the protests would be taken under consideration, and a decision announced at the earliest possible moment.

PLANNING TO PREVENT COTTON BILL FRAUDS

English Bankers Will Com- municate With Those In America.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A tentative plan to prevent fraudulent cotton bills of lading from being sent abroad from the United States has been agreed upon by the committee of English and American bankers who have been in session here, and who have adjourned until next Wednesday in order to communicate with bankers in America upon the feasibility of the plan, which is as yet in outline.

That much was learned today, although no official decision was given by Sir Edward Holden, who heads the committee. It was also said to the committee of American bankers may be invited here to participate in the conference after it resumes next Wednesday.

Foreign bankers are opposed to the American proposition of the railroad issuing validation certificates because of the technicalities that might arise through the liability of agents.

The investigation which is now under way is a direct result of the cotton scandal which resulted in the failure of the big Southern cotton house of Knight, Lacey & Co., with $4,000,000 liabilities.
